Mr. Dribben Speaks At Worth St. Event

President of Cone Mills Inc., Saul F. Dribben took part in ceremonies last week marking the centennial of the establishment of textiles in the Worth Street marketplace. The program was held at 40 Worth Street, New York City.

Mr. Dribben discussed the 100 years of textiles in Worth Street with the early arrival of firms in that area and the steady growth of the marketplace to its present status as world center of textile trade.

The speaking program which included other Worth Street dignitaries, was followed by the unveiling of the flag of the Worth Street Historical Society.

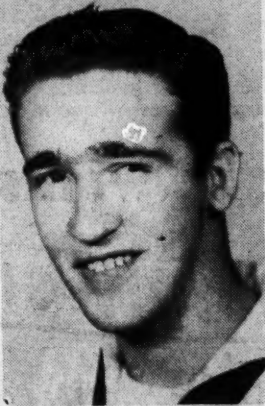

Also honored on the occasion were the tercentenary of the City of New York, the 327th anniversary of the sale of Manhattan Island to the Dutch, the 344th anniversary of the discovery of New York by Henry Hudson, and the estimated 3,000th anniversary of the oldest inhabited spot on Manhattan Island.

Arthur B. Carlson of the New York Historical Society noted the fact of ancient Indian settlement on the shores of Old Collect Pond and the probability of this being the oldest inhabited area. He stated claims that Henry Hudson landed near Worth Street were logical, and cited old illustrations owned by the New York Historical Society suggesting that Manhattan Island more likely was sold for textiles than for "beads and trinkets."

He referred to extensive research done to establish 1853 as the beginning of the Worth Street textile marketplace and congratulated the organization on the development of the history of Worth Street.

William T. Van Aften, vice president of Dunn & Bradstreet, Inc. and president of the Holland Society of New York, extended the congratulations of the Mayor's Committee on New York's tercentenary to the Worth Street organization.

300 Attend First Office Yule Party

The first Christmas party by all of the combined offices of Cone Mills Corporation in Greensboro was held last Wednesday night with approximately 300 attending. The dinner-dance was held at Starmount Country Club amid Yuletide decorations and to the tune of the Soft-tones of Danville, Va.

The Cone Maids set the musical scene with carols and other seasonal songs.

An original skit, directed by Mrs. Ogburn Blake, written by Jim Marvin, and entitled "The Night Before Christmas," combined the traditional story with a few Dragnet embellishments. Taking part in this farce were: Gordon Williams, Red Leonard, George Nance, Louise Tucker, Jim Marvin, Carolyn Smith. Jim Fuller gave the commercial for Cone deceptone cigarettes.

A repeat performance of "The First Flickers Come to Hickville," with Mrs. Jackie Haislip, Monroe Whitte and Raymond Smith was up to snuff. Miss Carolyn Royster was at the piano.

WOND'ROUS NIGHT

High upon our Christmas tree,
A single shining star
Sheds its light but modestly,
Yet casts its warmth afar;
Symbol of the Star—this gem—
That gave its light to Three,
That they might come to Bethlehem
And worship joyfully.

'Neath the star that tops our tree
Are shining silver things,
Reindeer, birds and brilliancy,
And color fit for kings.
Hand in hand the youngsters stand
Enchanted by the sight—
Picture now this fairland
And keep this wondrous night!

Charles Moody, Dwight superintendent, presented Mr. Cousins with a watch from his fellow workers in appreciation of his fine work at Dwight and his leadership in the civic life of Gadsden.

William Hardie Lambeth

William H. Lambeth To Retire January 1

Announcement that William H. Lambeth will retire January 1st, after completing 43 years with Cone Mills Inc., was made known Wednesday at a luncheon given in his honor by the company at the Hotel Hermitage in Nashville, Tenn.

Since 1915 Mr. Lambeth has been in charge of the company's Nashville office, covering the Tennessee, Kentucky and Arkansas territory. He joined the Charlotte office of the organization, then known as Cone Export and Commission Co., Inc., in 1910, travelling Virginia, North Carolina, South Carolina, Georgia, Tennessee and Kentucky.

Special tribute was paid to Mr. Lambeth by Edwin G. Holt, vice president in charge of the company's branch offices. Speaking to the group, which included business friends of Mr. Lambeth's in the immediate vicinity of Nashville with whom he has actively worked, Mr. Holt read from a letter to Mr. Lambeth from Saul F. Dribben, president of Cone Mills Inc.

In his letter Mr. Dribben expressed regret that pressing business matters prevented his being present at the occasion and went on to say, "It is not often that I have had the pleasure and privilege of paying tribute to an associate with as many as forty-three years of distinguished service with our company. Yours is a unique record of which you can be justly proud. It has combined rare qualities of outstanding ability and loyalty."

Not Too Alarming

Great concern is felt over the fate of at least some of the 22 American war prisoners who have decided to cast their lot with the Communists. From our point of view, they know not what they are doing. It is also reasonable to assume that some of the GI's will realize too late the fate they have chosen.

It is not too surprising that out of all the war prisoners there are some who have become indoctrinated by the Communists when we realize that in this country there are some who have absorbed the spirit of Communism and have been blind to the true programs and objectives of those who dominate the Red programs. As has been revealed, there have been some in high places in government who not only accepted Communism but actually attempted to betray their own government and fellow Americans in behalf of the Red program. For that reason we should not be too shocked to learn that some of our boys have been gullible enough to believe the Communist agents who have no doubt devoted their extreme propaganda talents and tactics in converting the troubled minds of certain soldiers to their theoretical ideals. The word theoretical is used advisedly because Communism in practice is entirely different from the ideals claimed by the Communists.

There have been many cases where Americans have been led to believe in those so-called ideals of Communism but have been disillusioned when they have had an opportunity to observe Communism in work and practice.

For the sake of the parents and loved ones of the 22 ex-GI's, we deplore the situation. We are also sympathetic toward those unfortunate boys because it is quite certain that most of them will realize sooner or later that they have made a tragic mistake.

Just what the Communists will do with their victims we do not know. No doubt they will try to use some of them as tools in promoting the Communistic cause. They will probably be urged and coerced to write glowing letters back home with the hope of those who are controlling their destiny that they can gain recruits for the Red objective. Some will unquestionably revolt against what they see, hear, and are told to do. The fate for them may be tragic. However, the greatest suffering which they will likely endure will be mental rather than physical.

We favor the utilization of every honorable device and method to bring those boys to a true realization of the facts; but in view of the circumstances we cannot be too alarmed over the fact that 22 Americans out of the entire group of prisoners have been recruited by the master minds of Communistic propaganda.

Pythian Echoes

by R. Cole Lee

"It is a joy to be a Pythian, a pleasure to be a Dokkie."
At this sitting I have but one motive; that is, to give serious thought to the meaning of Christmas. In the book of Matthew, the second chapter and in Luke, the first chapter, there is a very fascinating story. The central figure is a little babe by the name of Jesus. May I pause to make a suggestion, please? On Christmas morning as the family assembles around the breakfast table or gathers at the foot of the lighted tree, (and before a morsel of food is taken or the packages exchanged in anxious expectation) why not take a little time and prayerfully read either of the scriptures mentioned. To do so would certainly increase the joy of your heart and provide you with an outlook on life that is more meaningful.

Reading and studying after other men is a source of great satisfaction to me. I have in my possession a book given to me years ago by an old Baptist minister entitled: "The Works of Josephus." Now Flavius Josephus was an historian born in Jerusalem in the year 37 A.D. and died in 96 A.D. His family, to use his own term, was "sacredotal in general." After the fall of Jerusalem in 70 A.D. he migrated to Rome where he wrote "Antiquities of the Jews." From his works we get a contrast of a babe being born into the world then as compared to one being ushered into existence now amid such stupendous advancements in world politics and social science. Paul in his letter to the Galatians the fourth chapter says: "When the time was fully come, God sent forth His Son, made of a woman, made under the law, to redeem them that were under the law, that we might receive the recognition of sons." Humanity before Christ was in dire circumstances. Because of wickedness, degradation and crime, the world was sinking fast. "The people sat in darkness and in the shadow of death." Slavery was the order of the day. All rights of men were completely ignored. Cruelty was rampant and whatever sport was participated in, it always resulted in the out pouring of blood. Crucifixion on a cross by the side of the road was a very familiar scene. Vice was unbridled and fleshly indulgence in hideous fashion was permitted without regard to the consequences. Marriage was corrupt, childhood was neglected and motherhood unhonored. Before Christ there was no redemptive power. "There was no balm in Gilead."

The time had arrived for a change. A time when common laws (Roman) should govern the known world. A time when a universal language (Greek and Latin) became the main vehicles of thought. A time when the Jews were dispersed, taking with them the priceless jewels of monotheism, the pure morality of the prophets and the promise of the coming "Prince of Peace" as recorded in the ninth chapter of Isaiah. Indeed, the time was fully come for God to fulfill His word: "The seed of a woman shall bruise the head of the serpent." Here we have the purpose of His mission. The fact that His influence exerted such a tremendous impact upon all nations, proclaim Him to be more than man. His life was sinless. Perhaps we may not be able to ever comprehend the entire mystery of His coming, nevertheless, the fact that Christ came meets the needs of the human hearts. He was deity personified. "The Word became flesh and dwelt among us, full of grace and truth." Contemplate, if you please, the greatness of Christ from an angle and you will accumulate sufficient evidence to become convinced that He is not a product of evolution. If Christ's birth means anything to the world, it means but one thing, namely, that only through Christ can we have access to God. Man's redemption was planned by God before Christ's birth at Bethlehem. At Bethlehem the Son of God became the Son of Man that we may become the sons of God. How can anyone knowing and feeling the real purpose of God in sending His Son refrain from singing His praises. Through the birth of "The Only Begotten," God's Son by generation, we become His sons by regeneration. Only as we trust Him as our Redeemer, and His spirit is imparted to us, can God recognize us as His children—

"heirs and joint heirs with Christ." As we worshipfully meditate upon the true meaning of Christmas, ours is a great hope of growing into His likeness—overflowing with kindness, love, forbearance and forgiveness. To me, Christmas means opening your heart that it might become a new Bethlehem.

and made, by party committee chairman, Jim Perrin was one of the highlights of the evening.

Bill White missing a putt, Clarence N. Cone's driving form, Chester Arnold dressed for arbitration, T. H. Ward in a Cone Velveteen nightie in a satire on Revolution napping, Marion Heiss washing dishes at home, the Employment office doing Kinsey research, various bosses giving close contact dictation gave the party-goers a surprise.

Grand finale of the program which had included the giving of door prizes, was the group of songs by the Cone Mills Choir, led by Moir Ayers. Dressed in red choir robes and white vestments and singing from red songbooks, the group created a true Christmas spirit.

Dancing and bingo were in order following the program.

Decorations and reception were in the charge of Mrs. F. J. Blackwood, Mrs. Grant Hall, Mrs. W. T. Anthony and Miss Mary Louise Knight.

Jim Ward headed the finances.

MR. DRIBBEN'S SPEECH

Indian era in what is now the downtown textile center.

Marking the 344th anniversary of Henry Hudson's discovery of Manhattan September 14, 1609, John M. Reeves of Reeves Brothers, Inc., cited the probability that the discoverer's landing was made in the vicinity of Worth Street near the Indian village which centered at Broadway and Worth St., rather than at the Battery.

George M. Miller of Turner Halsey Company in connection with the marking of the 327th anniversary of the sale of Manhattan Island to the Dutch undertook to refute the claim that the famous sale was made for "beads and trinkets" of which the Indians already had ample inventories, and cited the reasons for belief that textile fabrics, for which Worth Street is now distinguished, were the currency used.

Marking the tercentenary of incorporation of the village of New Amsterdam, Floyd W. Jefferson of Iselin-Jefferson Co., Inc., recalled the early years of the City up to the middle of the last century.
